INDEX OF CHANGES IN SHIPS' NAMES

This Index includes all vessels on the Register at 31st December, 1946, the names of which have been changed since 31st December, 1939.

The vessels are shown in alphabetical order under their former names, together with the present name under which particulars will be found in the Part of the Main List indicated by the abbreviation after the name, e.g., (St) = Steam (Part I); (M) = Motor (Part II); (Sl) = Sail (Part III); (A.M.) = Auxiliary Motor (Parts II and III).

The abbreviation (Fn.) after a former name indicates that when operating under that name the vessel was not on the British Register.

THE COMPLETE EQUIPMENT IN 4 COMPACT UNITS

The problem of producing Radar that could be readily adapted to merchant ships of all classes and types was engaging Cossor's research engineers as early as 1941. The objectives were clear, though the methods by which they could be attained were for some time obscure. Reduction in bulk without loss of efficiency was a major consideration, and only after exhaustive tests both in laboratory and at sea was the design and layout of Cossor Marine Radar finally determined. The equipment is divided into four robust, compact and lightweight units which can be installed quickly and easily. Marine engineers who were familiar with wartime Radar have agreed that Cossor Marine Radar is a masterpiece of space-saving design, while its performance achieves an exceptionally high standard of accuracy and efficiency.

THE FILTER THAT SAVED A THOUSAND SHIPS

The supposition that the air at sea is free from dust was never more effectively disproved than during the war, when engine failure for this very reason led to the immediate fixing of the appropriate VOKES filters. Of even greater danger to fuel oil engines, however, are impurities in the fuel supply which may enter at any stage between the oil company's tanks and the user's tank. VOKES LTD. have given specialised attention to this problem and have proved that complete protection cannot be obtained (without the filter clogging) except by filtration in stages. VOKES Fuel Oil Filters, which remove particles down to 1/4,000" diameter, utilise, therefore, three stages—fine mesh copper gauze—a corrugated cylinder of fabric mounted on gauze—a completely enclosed cylinder of felt. Single units or twin changeover types are available as required . . . and they form effective insurance at a very low premium against damage to expensive fuel pumps, etc. Further details will gladly be sent on request.

Thermovent ELECTRIC SPACE HEATING

Safety Thermovent Heating is fundamentally safe, because elements operate at black heat and the patented Thermovent duct construction ensures a cool case and surround. It has the approval of Lloyd's underwriters.

Efficiency All current consumed is turned into useful heat—proved by the complete absence of local radiation. The forward projection of air from the heater prevents wall blackening and evenly distributes the warmth.

Economy High efficiency means great economy in operation too. Ease of installation is also a feature. A Thermovent Heater can be mounted anywhere with complete safety.

Some of the ships which use Thermovent Electric Space Heating include: "QUEEN MARY" · "QUEEN ELIZABETH" · "MAURETANIA" "ORION" · "HINEMONA" etc.
